Reviews from Other Campers: 1) The following excerpts are from a campground description found in the "U.S. National Forest Campground Guide" web site (<http://www.forestcamping.com/index.htm>) : "...The campground, pack it in, pack it out [whatever you take in you take out - garbage, etc.], is composed of huge Ponderosa pines and Lupine. It is bordered on one side by a glorious meadow of wildflowers. The ground cover is composed of pine needles and pine cones. Privacy between camp sites is fair to good. Although there is no potable water, tent campers should thoroughly enjoy this campground. The campground is 2 miles from the top of Mt. Pinos, considered a sacred place by the Chumash people. On the weekends, very serious amateur astronomers set up their telescopes in the parking lot. Most of these folks are from the LA area and welcome campers to look through their, sometimes very large, telescopes..."
