Reviews from Other Campers: 1) The following excerpts are from a campground description found in the "U.S. National Forest Campground Guide" web site (<http://www.forestcamping.com/index.htm>) : "...NOTE: The campground is actually in Cache National Forest, but administered by Caribou National Forest. The campground has two unnamed sections located along Cub River. Most camp sites are tucked into a forest of mixed pine, cottonwood, willow, maple, Aspen, and juniper - quite a variety of trees! Most camp sites are adjacent to the clear-running Cub River which is about one stride wide in places. Wild roses, other wildflowers, and butterflies decorate the campground. Elk, deer and moose visit occasionally to check on campers. The tables for some camp sites are across the "river" from the parking apron. This is a nice campground for the whole family. There are lamp poles at some sites. Site #1 is accessed via a low-water bridge...Open May 15 through October 15. No potable water after Labor Day...The parking aprons are gravel..."

Directions

Willow Flat Campground is 3 miles south of Preston, Idaho on US Hwy. 91. Turn east on the Cub River Road (road 406). 3 miles inside the Cache National Forest boundary road 406 and 407 intersect in a "Y". Take the right fork of the "Y" which is still road 406. Willow Flat Campground is 1.5 miles from this intersection on road 406.
